

Self-Introduction

Hello,

I am Seowon Choi, a third-year student majoring in Computer Engineering at Jeonbuk National University.

I have a deep interest in how artificial intelligence (AI) is transforming the world, and I am recently exploring the fields of cloud computing and data infrastructure with great enthusiasm.

I am passionate about solving complex problems logically and creating a better world through technology.

Currently, I serve as the President of the WHO Club at Jeonbuk National University, where I lead and organize various development projects with my team members.

Recently, I successfully hosted the 2025 Open Source Software Idea Hackathon Camp, taking full responsibility for planning and execution from start to finish.

Through this experience, I strengthened my teamwork, leadership, and problem-solving abilities.

Looking ahead, I aspire to become an innovative developer who integrates AI and cloud technologies to create meaningful and practical services.

I am committed to continuous learning, constant challenges, and contributing positively to society through technology.

Thank you.